Jess Willard

Jess Willard would restore the wreath that Johnsing wrested from the whites; with warlike zeal he grinds his teeth, this hero of at least two fights. Alas, our bosoms are not warmed, when such a hero gambols in; unless black Jack is chloroformed, we do not see how Jess can win. The chances are he'll come to grief before they're fairly down to biz; for, while he's surely long on beef, the spark of genius isn't his. He hasn't the immortal fire which made the Bard of Avon great, which made Jack Milton punch his lyre, and get his laurel crown on straight. He has the lard, his heart is game, he has the height, he has the reach; but, oh, he lacks that deathless flame which makes the pugilistic peach. With confidence he goes to meet the greatest fighter on this sphere. but he will tumble o'er his feet, Community Walk Enjoyed by 109 and cork himself and interfere. They'll bear him helpless from the ring while drearily the White Face groans, and Johnsing, he will dance and sing, and draw his thirty thousand bones.

Dr. Wood, in Sermon, Points to American Hatred of Militarism as Proof.

Hate of militarism and navalism and all policies that tend toward war is one of the qualifications the United States possesses which makes it the logical beacemaker in the great conflict waging in Europe, according to Rev. Dr. Charles Wood, pastor of the Church of the Covenant. In a sermon last night on "America and the War" Dr. Wood

"The great war has stimulated our soon be upon our possessions. Are we the parish. able on land and on sea to protect them? But, regardless of all this, our principles and purposes remain as they always have been. Should we attempt a war of conquest and succeed, the re-suits to Americanism would be scarce-ly less disastrous than a decisive de-feat.

Seeks to Be Peacemaker.

"We hold the proud position of al noner to humanity. Lord Bryce said only the other day that the American people is the most responsive people in all the world to a cry of distress, how ever distant. We are very ambitious We covet a throne higher than that of almoner—the throne of the peacemaker. We hope we do not lay a too flattering unction to our souls when we confess our belief that we possess qualifications inferior to none for this high position. "The first of these quanneations is our hate of war and the spirit that produces war. We hate militarism and navalism, Caesarism and Napoleonism, with the same perfect hatred, whatever may be the language of the false tongues of the false tongues of them advocates. We see in every such 'ism' a blow alike at the family, the state, civilization and Christianity.

Mr. Debray spoke to the children during the Sunday school hour, and led the litany at the late service. He expects to be ordained to the full priest-hood of the Episcopal Church during the coming summer, after which he is to work among the people of his own tribe in South Dakota.

At the vesper service last night the sermon was preached by Rev. William Tayloe Snyder. Rev. William E. Collender is to preach a Lenten sermon at the church Wednesday evening. the litany at the late service. He ex-
